NEW YORK A. C. WILL APPLY FOR A LICENSE TO HAVE BOXING.

There Will Be Bouts Setween Pira:-Class Men Not Above the Middleweight Limit-West-orn Pootball Bules Do Not Meet with Pavor -Appetniment of Coach Forbes at Harvard. According to proposed plans, there will be boxing bouts between first-class men at the

New York A. C. as soon as the new building at Pifty-ninth street and Sixth avenue is occupied, which will be about Feb. 20. Bartow S. Weeks, Chairman of the Athletic Committee, said yesterday that an application would probably be sent to the Police Commissioners for a license to permit boxing under the law. He further said that last year the club took out a regular theatrical license upon application to Mayor Strong, and that if such procedure necessary under the new administration the Ciub is willing to adopt it once more. Weeks declares that the N. Y. A. C. is as much, if not more, entitled to a license than any athletic club in the State. He outlines the policy of the committee that will be placed in charge of box ing by saying that bouts will be arranged be tween first-class pugilists at weights ranging anywhere under and up to the middleweight limit. He does not believe that the club would make a wise move in having heavy weight contests, for there might be a certain amount of adverse comment should any of such events prove brutal. But Weeks claims that with contests in the bantamweight, featherweight, lightweight, welterweight and middleweight classes there will aufficient amount of good sport to satisfy the wants of the members. The new gymnasium will be suitably fitted up for this purpose. There will be a seating capacity for 1,200 members, and the bouts will be arranged by a competent matchmaker. As far as the requirements of the law are concerned, the club will live up strictly to them. Every member will be entitled to purchase a ticket for himself and an extra ticket for one guest, providing the tickets are secured at the club's box office If a member desires to bring more than one guest he may secure an extra ticket from some other member. In this way the club really holds a private show, and, according to the requirements of the present charter, a license is not necessary, so competent legal authorities say. As far as the other clubs are concerned that have applied for licenses, the statement that their applications will not be acted upon until July 1 still holds good, accordnoted upon until July 1 still holds good, according to well-posted persons. It is said that the Police Commissioners, in their investigation of certain caucs, win nom the N. Y. A. C. Club as a standard, and it, the other clubs cannot show a reasonation membership list, and cannot prove that their clubs are actually legitimate on the basis of the "Meccury Foo" organization, they will not receive permission to continue their shows.

The ridiculously easy manner in which Peter Maher disposed of "Yank" Kenney at Phiadelphia was not in the nature of a surprise to sporting men who have had a correct line on kenney since he came East. Kenney was practically unheard of a year ago, but by the aid of press age has many persons were made to believe that he had the qualities of a world-beater. When Kenney appeared in the crowd that saw that he had the qualities of a world-beater. When Kenney appeared in the crowd that saw the McCoy-Cr.edon fight at Long Island City a few weeks ago, clever judges of fighters immediately reached the conclusion that he was, in the language of the short-haired fraternity, a "...ead one." He does not look like a fighter, in the first place, and has never shown any ability to stand punishment. He has dodged out of several good matches, and when it was learned that he would fight O'Donnell there was considerable merriment. O'Donnell, it will be remembered, was nucked out twice by Peter Maher, each time in less than two minutes, so that there was a trilling amount of interest in Steve's proposed meeting with "Yank." But at the last moment O'Donnell failed to appear, and Maher, after elimbing into the ring with little or no preparation, walloped Kenney on the law a couple of times and out this out. elimbing into the ring with little or no preparation, walloped Kenney on the jaw a couple of times and put him out. Maher, by his quick victory, shows conclusively that he is in good shape, and that, if he can get on a match with any of the big fellows, he may surprise his friends. Peter is anxious to settle his old score with Joe Goddard, and in view of the fact that the latter has been polished off in short order by Tom Sharkey, a victory for Maher seems pretty well assured. Maher is willing to fight anybody, which should be appreciated by those persons who have been hoodwinked in the past by Corbett, Fitzsimnons and McCoy. Tom O'Rourke has offered a chance to McCoy to fight a white man below or at the middleweight limit, for $5,000 a side. It is pretty generally believed that O'Rourke will jet Dick O'Brien of Boston against the "Kid" if the latter shows a willingness to fight.

In spite of the fact that Prof. Stagg of the University of Chicago and Prof. Everett of the University of Illinois took the trouble to draft a University of Illinois took the trouble to draft a new set of football rules, it appears that the reforms suggested by these men have not been favorably received by certain institutions in the West. The University of Wisconsin has signified its intention to follow the expected reforms of the regular Football Rules Committee that will meet at the University A. C. here on Feb. 19. The Northwestern University is also in favor of walting for the Eastern experts to make rules. At Evanston it is said that the changes suggested by Stagg and Everett will not benefit favor of waiting for the Eastern experts to make rules. At Evanston it is said that the changes suggested by Stagg and Everett will not benefit the game except in minor details. The rules against mass plays are neutralized by exceptions which permit the very thing the committee sought to eliminate, and it is claimed that the chances of injury are not materially lessened. The rule which permits two rush line men to stand behind the line outside of the circumference of the scrimmage is regarded as a practical encouragement of mass plays. It is claimed further that the rule in this instance can be evaded by small artifices. It provides that if five men besides the quarter back are behind the line, two of them must clearly play outside of the positions occupied by the players at the end of the line. An exception is made in the case of a line-up for a kick, when, if the ball is fumbled, a player may take it and go forward, even if the entire team be behind it. This leaves the most dangerous form of mass play still permissible, and a pretended fumble at any time would render the play possible. Stagg says, in commenting on this change:

"In the old rule there was described an imaginary quadrangle which for one dimension had five men on a line and for the other a line five yards long drawn back from the ends of the line as it stood. By the old rule inside this quadrangle there could be the quarter back and four other players arranged in any formation, while another player could be placed anywhere outside of the quadrangle. This made it practically possible to mass six men on any point in the line and in several formations this was done with injury to the players. In the new rules no more than three men and the quarter back are allowed to be directly behind the line. Five men must be on the line, and the other two can be played anywhere so long as they are clearly outside of the men on the end of the line. This does not, mor was it intended to, do away with the "guards back interference of Pennsylvania, but it does weak suggested by Stagg and Everett will not benefit

As The Sun has stated, the Football Rules Committee, representing the big Eastern universities, might do well to make Stagg a regular member representing the West, and in that mapner harmonize the various reforms that have been suggested both in the East and West. Yale men will favor this idea, for they know well enough that Stagg is well informed in football matters. In his Western college reforms Bragg has shown undoubted competency, and from his ideas and suggestions the Eastern experts may derive some benefit.

rom his ideas and suggestions the Eastern experts may derive some benefit.

The appointment of Cameron Forbes as head ceach of the Harvard football team for next fall was in some quarters unexpected. Capt. Dibblee believes that Forbes should receive another trial, and that his methods in vogue at Cambridge last fall should be continued, with some alterations. Forbes, as is well known, as purely theoretical in his ideas, having never played on a 'varsity eleven, but some members of the Athletic Committee became so impressed with his ideas and plans last year that they do not believe he should be supplanted just yet. It is said by many Harvard football men who saw the system of coaching at Cambridge last senson that if Forbes would releve himself of the army of would-be coachers who handicapped him, and would take unto himself increased powers for enforcing his ideas, there might be better results. But a repetition of the behavior of the coachers during the Yale game on Soldiers Field, when they gave to the players all sorts of conflicting advice, and after the game publicly rebuised the tam by removing the 'varsity' "H" from the uniforms because Yale had not been besten, will not be regarded as beneficial to Harvard's interests on the grid-iron. Forbes's friends say that he was in no way to biame for these unifortunate occurrences, and they predict for him a successful reign as head coach next fall. Capt. Dibblee is a man who has an opinion about tootball, and his friends state that he will be in perfect accord with any suggestions that Forbes may make.

As THE SUN has all along pointed out. Harvard will not enter a rowing association proposed by Cornell. The Crimson is loyal to Yale and will, doubtless, try to arrange a three-cornerod race at New London. The latest advices are to the effect that Cornell will accept the inevitable and will agree to row Yale and Harvard on the Thames, as originally propo est by Yale. This, however, all depends on whether Cornell can get up a big regatta on the Hudson and can secure the presence of an English crew. Boveral local Cornell graduates believe that it may be policy to row Yale this year, anyway, so as to demonstrate the unsportamanlike attitude.

that Yale is afraid to row Courtney's crew, in view of the fact that in the last two svents be tween Yale and Cornell the latter has proved victorious. It is doubtful whether Yale lacks the courage to race the Ithneans, but it looks very much as though a decided advantage over Cornell's eight was desired before the crews get to the starting point. Yale has a wonderful crew this year, no doubt, and according to common talk the cry at New Haven is just now: "If we can get Cornell to come to New London and best her this year, that will end the controversy." Cornell appreciates this point, and before long the Ithneans may accept the chance.

TROTTERS OFF FOR EUROPE. Notable Collection of Horors Sent Abroad by C. J. Hamlin.

The Hamburg-American steamer Pennsylvania, which left this port yesterday for Hamburg, carried away seventeen well-bred trotters from C. J. Hamlin's Village Farm, near Buffalo. The horses were shipped in charge of Henry Smith, and are destined to Genoa, Italy. Among the lot were the well-known campaigners Henrietta. 2:17, by Mambrino King, and Pansy, 2:174, by Hamilin's Almont, Jr. Silvery Chimes, a prize winner in one of the important trotting classes at the National Horse Show two years ago, was the only stallion in the collection. He was formerly kept in the stud at Village Farm, and is a full brother to Almy Chimes, sire of the frast pacer Silver Chimes, 2:094. Some of the brood mares sent abroad are among the best bred ones in the Village Farm catalogue, and several are producers of speed. Ada, by Almont, Jr., is the dam of King Protector, 2:184, and Etelka, 2:214. Charmer is the dam of the two Grand Circuit winners, Charming Chimes, 2:184s, and Carillon, 2:164. Her dam, Windsweep, produced Excellence, 2:194, and the pacer Passing Belle, 2:084s. Persis, another of the lot shipped yesterday, is a full sister to Charmer, and Katrina, by Mambrino King, is out of a sister to Globe, 2:144s. The policy of Coach Cowles, although no The polley of Coach Cowies, although not officially announced as yet, appears to be very much the same as last year. The stroke will not be materially changed, but more attention will be paid to quickness and snap in the use of the hands, followed by a slow, even recovery of the body. The system of training will also be practically unchanged, but better discipline and a closer observance of forms than heretofore will be insisted upon by Capt, Longacre.

The progress made by the track men has been encouraging. In response to the call for candidates for this year's team 140 men presented themselves to Capt. H. G. Hershfield at the gymnasium last wock. This is by far the largest number that has ever turned out for the team, and of itself is a fair sign of the increased interest in athletics that the change of sites has occasioned. The new system of training employed has thus far been found to be very beneficial to the men. It consists of light work on the chest weights, followed by a slow run of about a mile up and down the cinder path on the Boulevard. were well represented by a large delegation of admirers. The game was a fine one, both schools displaying plenty of skill.

Two fifteen minute halves were played. On the face off Berkeley secured the puck, and by good passing and blocking rushed it down the ice, but a good attempt at goal was cleverly stopped by Eggena of St. Austin's. During the rest of the half both teams induged in some fierce playing, and very often the two goals were in danger. Time was called with the nuck in the centre of the ice, neither team having scored. St. Austin's rushed matters in the second half and kept the puck in Berkeley's territory most of the time. They were unable, however, to get it through the uprights. The half was in the centre when time was called, neither team having scored. The line-up follows:

The Brooklyn men won, but only after the bardest kind of a game. The first half ended in a tie and it looked as though the Jerseymen would make it a draw. In the second half, however, by some hard playing the Brooklyns scored two goals, both being shot by Dobbey on passes from Drakeley and Hail. Hall and Dobbey played rough hockey, and Howard Homans, the football player, was cut on the forehead by Hall's stick.

W. who is resposible for the suggestion that the organization create a junior membership, is making an active canvass to secure in dorsement for his amendment that will come up before the annual meeting of the L. A. W. next month. Clark estimates that there are over one million bicycle riders in the United States, a large proportion of whom are eligible for membership in the junior class. One of the main objects of this amendment, he maintains, will be to create a recruiting agency for the League to draw in those riders who would not join for any other reason. The idea of the formation of such a membership has been favor ably received in the large divisions, and it is likely that it will be passed on at the National Assembly.

The willingness of the Pennsylvania division of the L. A. W. to support L. B. Potter for Pres-

The willingness of the Pennsylvania division of the L. A. W. to support I. B. Potter for President in preference to George D. Gideon caused some surprise. The politicians in the Pennsylvania division, however, declare that in supporting Potter a step 1s made to strengthen the hold of that division on the office for next year. A member of the division explained the situation as follows:

"In deciding to support the Potter-Keenan ticket this year we do not in any respect admit that elther Potter or Keenan are better qualified for executive offices than George D. Gideon, our most desired candidate. We have carefully considered the situation, however, and realizing that our division is quite a power in the League, due to its numerical strength, we concluded to work in harmony with New York and strike out boldly for Gideon for President in 1899. One of our chief reasons for this step is due to the fact that the President's term of office is for one year. An amendment will be presented to the assembly extending the term to two years, and we would much rather put in our candidate for the two-year term. In Pennsylvania we do not underestimate the strength of the New York State division, but we know that arbitrary rulings of its leading officers has developed a strong opposition throughout the country to the Empire State leaders. George Gideon is one of the most popular and deserving wheelmen in the L. A. W., and it is safe to say that Pennsylvania will eventually make one of the greatest efforts in her power to install him in the chief executive chair of the League."

in the chief executive chair of the League."

Special attention will be devoted to the welfare of the professional riders this year. At a recent meeting of the National Cycle Track Association it was decided to employ a number of first-class racing men and a staff of about twenty-four pacemakers at regular salaries. It is the object to engage the best short and middle-distance racing men to follow the association circuit and form teams for intercity term contests. The employment of special riders will, in all probability, restrict the men to association tracks exclusively. The outlook for professional racing this year is so encouraging that it is expected a number of well-known riders will forsake the amateur ranks in the early spring in order to take advantage of the opportunities offered to cash-prize men. In England special attention to professional racing has resulted in a practical separation of the two classes, and as a result of the indifferent interest taken in amateur events the latter has been on the decline.

Cycling of England gives the following infor-

Cycling of England gives the following information on the conditions of the sport in Turkey "According to a correspondent in Salonica the cyclist who is fond of a bit of fast work on the cyclist who is fond of a bit of fast work on the road can find himself accommodated without difficulty. All he has to do is to sprint for all he is worth, the police regulations being framed so as to not interfere with his plotsure. Perhaps this form of excitement is excusable in Turkey, which possesses no tracks whereon the budding Zimmerman or Bourillon in embryony take a fast turn against the watch. Although the population of Constantinople is said to exceed 1,000,000, there are only 300 cyclists. The neighboring principalities of Roumania are better off, for there is a capital track at Bucharest. Among the Turkish peasantry, cycles are still called 'Devil's mounts'.

President Barnett of the Associated Cycling Clubs of Long Island declares that the proposi-tion of the Associated Clubs of this city to amalgamate all the clubs in Greater New York into one organization will not be entertained in into one organization will not be entertained by the Long Island body. The latter, he declares, fluds itsolf kent busy attending to the wants of the individual and club riders on Long Island without consolidating with any other body. The Long Island Association has an enrollment of twenty-eight clubs, and is in an excellent position to carry out plans for the wolfare of riders. While opposed to a consolidation, the officers of the association approve of the two bodies working together harmoniously for any measure calculated to benefit cycling.

What Slosson Says of Schnefer's Average.

George Slosson, champion of the new eighteeninch balk-line game, said yesterday that Schae-fer's fine average of forty in the Chicago tournament was a fine exhibition. "Jake deserves all possible credit." He further said: "In his game possible credit." He further said: "In his game with Spinks, however, he averaged only five, which simply goes to show how uncertain this new game of eighteen-inch balk is. One thing should be remembered as to the Chicago tournament. They are playing on a slower cushion than the one used in the New York contest. When Schaefer and I meet here we will use the same fast cushion that was furnished in the championship tournament."

"Poly" Defeats Adelphi at Basketball. By the score of 7 points to 6 the Polytechnic Institute team defeated the Adelphi Academy five at the former's gymnasium yesterday morning after one of the most interesting games of this season at Brooklyn. Both teams played a this season at Brookijn. Both teams played a fast and snappy game, but the home players showed better skill in team work and passing. The Adelphis were unfortunate at starting for goal. At the end of the first half the score stood 6 to 2 against Adelphi. The latter players tied the score by some good unbill work, but on a foul a few moments before time "Poly" gained a point and won the game. The teams:

Robert Goelet's big steam yacht Nahma which has been awaiting salling instructions for several days, passed out to sea early yesterday bound for a long cruise to the Bermudas and th Mediterranean. It was learned at Owner Goelet's office that he and his guests, consisting of Mrs. Goelet, Francis B. Riggs and Dr. Knapp of Mrs. Goelet, Francis B. Riggs and Dr. Knapp of Newport, contrary to the impression that has prevailed during the past few weeks, sailed on the yacht instead of a ceting her at Bormuda.

The Nahma is one of the largest and nost lux urlously equipped pleasure vessels in the world. She was designed by George L. Watson, built on the Clyde, and considered by many experts to be the linest production of that architect. She is 306 feet 7 inches beam, with a draught of 17 feet 5 inches. She is equipped with twin screws, and her engines are of the triple expansion type. She has a crew of seventy-two men, commanded by Capt. Churchill, and for an armament carries two rapid-fring guns and a stand of carbines, cutlasses and pistois, in charge of a gunner. The appointments of the yacht, which have been fully described in The Suy, are very complete, and the vessel has shown exceptional sea-going qualities.

Two Football Players Injured.

PATCHOGUE, Jan. 22.-James Vandusen and George Phannimiller were severely injured while playing football under association rules here this afternoon. The men were knocked senseless, and for a long time afterward were senseless, and for a long time afterward were in an unconscious condition. They were playing on the Patchogue team against the Lace Mill team, Phannimiller being a member of the former and Vandusen of the latter. Both men coilisted at a critical point of the game. Phannimiller was stending goal, and Vandusen, in attempting to pass the ball, ran into Phannimiller with considerable force. It is thought that they are injured internally. The Patchogue team won by a score of 2 to nothing.

Odds and Ends of Sports.

The special committee interested in the establishment of public symmaticus held an informal meeting at J. E. Suilivan's office, 241 Broadway, yesterday afternoon. The members discussed ways and means for some hours, but deterred any positive announcement of their pisses.

CRAY'S
OLD ESTABLISHED
CAHRIAGE REPOSITORY. 20 AND 22 WOOSTER ST., between Canal and Grand sts NEW CLASSIFICATION FOR DOGS.

Will Be Introduced at the Show of the Westminster Mennel Club. The Westminster Kennel Club's twentysecond annual dog show, which will open on Feb. 21, will be the first of importance to be held under the new classification, as adopted by the American Kennel Club. The old divisions. known as the open and challenge classes, have been done away with, and in their stead junior and free-for-all classes have been substituted. Junior classes are for dogs that have not won four first prizes under American Kennel Club rules, wins in puppy and novice classes ex cepted. The free-for-all class is for dogs of any age over six months, no prize winners being de-barred from competition. This allows of a good puppy being entered in the puppy, novice, junior puppy being entered in the puppy, novice, junior and free-for-all classes, and brings a good youngster in direct competition with the older dogs.

Dogs are beginning to arrive from England, The Massachusetts brought over Lord Brassey, the largest mastiff in England. Next to Peter Piper, who beat Beaufort's Black Prince, Lord Brassey is the best mastiff in that country. Some built terriers and Irish terriers are on their way, as well as one of the crack beagles which has won a number of times in England. One reason probably for the appearance of the beagle is the Juvenile Challenge Plate offered by J. i. Kernochan for the best beagle in the puppy class and the Pickhardt Cup for the best beagle bred by the exhibitor.

The reason for the appearance of the new Irish Terrier Club of America has offered two $8100 challenge cups: the first being for dors, and the second for bitches. The entries for this stake close on Jan. 31. The winner in each class will receive 50 per cent. of the money, the second 30 per cent., and the hird 20 per cent. The Gordon setters will receive another change at the America Field Vase, which was won outright last year by James B. Biossam.

Passaic Rowing Association's Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Passaic River Amateur Rowing Association was held at Newark on Friday night. When the call for new business was made by Commodore Thurber, George C. Haddow of the Triton Boat Club presented resolutions framed by his study which denounced the methods of the National Assectation of Amatour Garanen in electing its officers. The slection of officers resulted as follows: Commender, Henry C. Rommell, Triton Boat Club; Treasurf, William A. Durger, Newark Rowing Club; Secretary, E. L. Presendorfer, Institute Boat Club;
